World War II Memorial

The idea for a World War II Memorial sprang from an Army veteran, Roger Durbin, who lived in the Toledo area. Mr. Durbin approached me in 1987 to ask why with all the monuments and memorials in our nation's capital, there were none dedicated to World War II. Later that year I introduced legislation to create this memorial. Seventeen years later it was built. The World War II Memorial commemorates that profound period between 1939 and 1945 that forged the 20th century. It recognizes the service of the millions of Americans who served our country at home and abroad. This memorial honors every citizen who bought a war bond, who planted a victory garden, who used ration cards for gasoline and food, who produced the good and fiber to feed and cloth our troops, who sailed the ships, ran the railroads, who flew the planes to supply our fighting forces, and those who fought and those who died protecting democracy and freedom.

Located on 17th Street, between Constitution and Independence Avenues, the Word War II Memorial is flanked by the Washington Monument to the east and the Lincoln Memorial to the west.
